

SENATE NEARS VOTE ON LABOR LAW REPEAL

Ohio House Okays
New High Budget
For '49 Operation

COLUMBUS, June 15—(AP)—Majority Democrats piloted the record-high $646,802,498 biennial budget through the Ohio house without allowing any Republican changes. The vote Tuesday was 110-11.

The total as recommended by the house finance committee is $2,658,946 less than asked by Gov. Frank J. Lausche. The bill appropriates money to run the state government for two years starting July 1. It now goes to the senate.

Sen. Clingan Jackson (D-Mahoning), finance committee chairman, said hearings will start Monday. He discounted reports that administration supporters may try to "railroad" the measure to make up lost time. The previous General Assembly held its last working session two years ago Tuesday. End of the present session still isn't in sight.

Two hours of debate in muggy summer heat preceded the house vote. It followed hour-and-a-half caucuses by both Democrats and Republicans.

The major battle developed over a Republican shot at a 6 percent cut in most appropriations. Among those spared would be grants for schools, local governments, old age pensions, officials' salaries and items fixed by law.

Draws GOP Support

The amendment by Rep. Virgil Perrill (R-Fayette) drew support of all Republicans except Rep. Guy C. Hiner of Canton. It was killed by tabling. The vote was 65-61. The majority of those voting prevails on such motions. A majority of those elected—68—is needed to pass the bills in the house.

Minority Leader C. William O'Neill (R-Washington) carried the fight for the Perrill amendment. He said that unless it passed, this legislature would "go down in history as the most extravagant."

"It will be the first legislature since the days of Martin L. Davey to pass an appropriation bill that does not balance," he added.

O'Neill said the budget on its face is $11,000,000 out of balance. Appropriations proposed are that much in excess of anticipated revenues, it was explained.

He insisted the cut would not impair state operations, that more money would be left than on the basis of 1948 spending. Then he charged Gov. Lausche with repudiating campaign promises of economy and more aid for schools and local governments.

"There have been too many promises made to too many people that can not be kept," O'Neill said. "We Republicans have the votes to kill this bill. We do not propose to do that. We have made our record for economy in the roll call vote," he continued.

New Spending High

Democratic leaders conceded the budget called for a new high in spending. Majority Leader A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont) contended Republicans in past legislature voted to increase government costs. "It is their responsibility as much as it is ours," he declared.

Lancione recalled the 1940 biennial budget was only $340,000,000 compared with $612,000,000 in 1948. Higher subsidies to local government accounted for much of the increases of the past few years, he said.

Republicans proposed a requirement for the finance director to submit six-month financial statements to senate and house clerks. It was shouted down by Democrats.

Rep. Mark McElroy (D-Cuyahoga) criticized Speaker John F. Cantwell (D-Mahoning) after passage of the budget bill. He said he was promised an opportunity to propose elimination of subsidies to all veterans groups. Cantwell admitted the promise but explained that debate was shut off before he had a chance to give McElroy the floor.

COALITION
SEEKS CUTS

Republicans, Democrats In Combine To Fight Big Housing Expenditure

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats, shouting for economy, lined up today against the big housing bill President Truman promised in his campaign.

The long deadlock on the measure was broken yesterday. The house rules committee, which killed similar legislation last year, voted 8 to 4 to clear it for immediate house action. The house decision was set for next week.

Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts called a mass meeting of all house GOP members for late this afternoon to plan a line of action. The house GOP policy committee already has taken a stand against the bill.

Time Is Wrong

"The time is unfortunate," Rep. Martin told newsmen, "for any new legislation calling for huge government spending. It might mean new taxes and shove the nation into a depression."

"Only a very few people would be benefitted and many would be put in peril, because of the threat to our financial stability. The decline in business in the last few weeks makes it more imperative than ever that we watch our spending."

A southern Democrat, Rep. Cox of Georgia, declared "we are doing that which Russia so much desires. We are bankrupting the country."

The bill calls for a vast program of slum clearance, low-rent public housing and farm housing aids. Estimates of the cost run from $9,000,000,000 to $19,000,000,000 over a 40-year period.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts said the bill probably will be put on the house floor for debate next Wednesday.

OHIOAN FIGHTS
FOR POTTERY
TARIFF LEVEL

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—Rep. Secrest (D-Ohio) is trying to line up support of other Ohio congressmen to demand tighter controls—or an embargo—on blown glass and pottery imports.

Secrest said he is worried especially about imports from Japan and Czechoslovakia.

"How can you fix tariffs that will compensate when the Japs, paying seven cents to nine cents an hour to their workers, can pay all expenses and lay down competitive glassware on the shelves of American retail stores to sell for less than half the price of American produced glassware?" he demanded.

"You just can't," he continued to a reporter. "I want a complete embargo. That would take an act of congress, and might be impossible to get, but at least we must do something about the tariffs, even if it isn't going to be enough."

"Czechoslovakian glass imports are another competitive headache," he said. "They pay their workers 20 cents an hour. In Ohio the average pay for that kind of work is $1.42 an hour."

Secrest said he and possibly some other Ohio congressmen will attend a conference of glass and pottery manufacturers here June 21, to obtain their views.

Rep. Ramsey (D-W. Va.), with whom Secrest discussed the problem, said he believes no tariff law will be effective "until it recognizes the difference in production cost, especially the costs of labor, in countries competing with American industries."

"It's too difficult now to get the State department to act when we find a particular trade treaty working to our disadvantage," Ramsey said.

YOUNGSTOWN BUS
STRIKE UNSETTLED

YOUNGSTOWN, June 15—(AP)—Youngstown's bus strike today entered its 15th day with no sign of a break for the city's foot-weary citizens.

In the latest move, the Youngstown Municipal Railway Co., yesterday rejected an offer by the AFL Bus Drivers' union to arbitrate the dispute.

"There will be no arbitration as far as the company is concerned," Michael M. Malmer, vice president and general manager of the bus company, said.

The strike involves 300 drivers who are asking a 26-cent hourly pay boost. They now make $1.34 1/2 an hour.

CIO CAMPAIGN
INCREASE OPEN

Negotiations Starting Today In Pittsburgh With U. S. Steel

PITTSBURGH, June 15—(UP)—The CIO United Steelworkers today opened their main campaign of a nationwide drive for fourth-round wage increases, social insurance and pensions for 1,000,000 workers in the steel industry.

But for the first time in its history, the powerful union enters negotiations with the giant U. S. Steel Corp. confronted with a declining economy. The steel industry itself is battling skidding production and mounting unemployment and plans to resist the union's triple-decked demands.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO-USW, will head the group of union negotiators to talk contract with U. S. Steel on neutral grounds at 1:30 p. m. EST here. John A. Stephens, vice president in charge of industrial relations, will lead the contingent of corporation negotiators.

Murray will ask for an undisclosed wage increase, a guaranteed work week, broad social insurance benefits and pensions—all company financed. The "package" plan would cost an estimated 30 cents an hour per man.

The talks will cover 170,000 workers in five "big steel" subsidiaries, but have consistently set the pattern for the entire industry. Subsidiaries involved were Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., National Tube Co., Geneva Steel, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad and American Steel & Wire Co.

U. S. Steel went into the negotiations reluctantly. It expressed regret at the union's move because of the "downward trend in cost of living and present uncertainties in the general business situation."

The corporation, however, Turn to CIO CAMPAIGN, Page 6

Presbytery Votes
In Former Pilot

Rev. James Evans, who has been filling the pulpit of Girard Presbyterian church, was licensed to preach by Mahoning Presbytery in session at Columbiana yesterday.

Rev. Evans is in his last year in Western Theological seminary, Pittsburgh. During the late war, he was a bomber pilot in 37 missions in Europe, mostly over Germany.

Mahoning Presbytery embraces 47 churches in four counties, Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull and Stark. Forty-five of the churches were represented at the spring meeting by about 65 ministerial and lay delegates.

A memorial service was held for deceased ministers and elders. The ministers were Rev. Howard D. Talbot of Youngstown, Rev. S. W. Seeman, Penny Farms, Fla., and Rev. L. P. McCulloch of Canfield. Elders were James P. Adanson of Alliance, D. W. Mumaw, H. B. Seward and Stephen Zurkew of Youngstown; W. H. Vanfossen of Lisbon, John Talbot of Canfield and Harry McKinley, Kinsman.

Rev. John V. Stevens of Alliance and Rev. P. T. Gerrard of Lisbon administered the Lord's Supper.

Rev. M. J. Tomasula of the Slovak church in Youngstown presided over the business session as moderator.

Rev. Frederic Miller of Youngstown was elected a trustee in place of the late Rev. Howard Talbot of Youngstown.

The Lowellville church was authorized to borrow $10,000.

National Strike
Clause May Hold
Up Vote Somewhat

By MAX HALL
WASHINGTON, June 15—(AP)—The senate neared the voting stage in its labor debate today after five days of speech-making.

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois said an amendment to require unions to bargain in good faith would be taken up first.

It is one of four bipartisan amendments to the administration's labor bill, which would repeal the Taft-Hartley act and replace it with an enlarged version of the original Wagner act.

Approval of the four amendments was expected without much opposition.

The changes, which would make the administration bill somewhat more like the Taft-Hartley act, would:

1. Require unions to bargain on request. The administration bill would apply this only to employers.

2. Require union and company leaders to sign non-Communist and non-Fascist affidavits—unless the union or the company itself effectively bans Communists and Fascists from its leadership, in which case no affidavits would be required.

3. Require unions and companies to file financial reports.

4. Guarantee "free speech" in labor relations as long as neither union nor management makes statements containing any "threat, force—or offer, express or implied, of reprisal or threat of reprisal."

Whether action on all four amendments would be completed today depended on how many senators speak on them.

Senator Taft (R) of Ohio, one of the administration bill's major opponents, said he expected all four proposals to be approved today, after which the senate will begin a major scrap over "national emergency" strikes.

In that connection, Senator Douglas (D) of Illinois told a reporter he and Senator Hill (D) of Alabama would formally introduce a fifth amendment providing for government seizure of plants—up to 90 days—to delay strikes imperiling the national health and safety.

Taft Will Fight

When the national emergency struggle is over—maybe by some time next week—Taft will try to get a lot more Taft-Hartley features into the labor bill by substituting his own proposals for the whole administration measure.

The Taft program is being vigorously attacked by Truman Democrats and by labor unions.

A group of 20 union lawyers, most of them in the CIO and AFL, joined in a statement saying the Taft proposals are "carefully designed to give the appearance, but not the reality, of concessions to the popular demand for Taft-Hartley repeal."

Senator Murray (D) of Montana, in the final speech of yesterday's session, called the Taft proposals "anti-free enterprise." He said they "will lead us along the road to... totalitarianism."

And Senator Humphrey (D) of Minnesota, winding up a speech he began last Friday, said the Taft-Hartley act of two years ago made 100 "corrupting changes" in the Wagner act, and the new Taft proposals would remedy only about one-fourth of them.

JUVENILES NABBED

LISBON, June 15—Sheriff Howard Clark rounded up five Mahoning county juveniles last night in connection with the theft of antiques from an uninhabited dwelling owned by William Landsberger on the Unity-Petersburg road sometime Tuesday.

The sheriff arrested Austin McCoy of near Rogers last night on an assault and battery charge. He was given a hearing before Justice Don Elliott of Rogers and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Sheriff deputies investigated an attempted breaking and entering of the general store in North Georgetown. The would-be burglars were frightened away Tuesday night before gaining entrance to the building.

Whose Pulse?

A brief item of information from Washington says that congressmen who have been back home to feel the pulse of the voters are convinced that politics "is still moving to the left." Therefore, the congressmen will move to the left for the sake of votes.

"The left" means, of course, in the direction of more federal spending and more federal control. That, according to the item from Washington, is where the votes are. And politicians will go where the votes are, all things being equal. That's what spend-and-spend-and-elect-and-elect means. In blunter terms, it means politicians will bankrupt the republic to get themselves elected, if that's what it takes. This very danger was described generations ago when the idea of representative democracy was new. Skeptics warned that the citizens of a democracy wouldn't be able to resist the impulse to raid their own treasury.

But optimists argued that universal education would overcome greed, avarice and ignorance. And to that end, popular education has been supported generously; it was representative democracy's best security. Yet, in 1949, congressmen are reported to be preparing for still further excursions into state socialism because that's what the majority of the people want.

Obviously, someone is lying when such a statement is made.

The pulse of public opinion isn't beating for bankruptcy.

It isn't beating for state socialism. It isn't beating for still higher taxes, or deficit financing, or bigger and better jobholders in Washington to tell people what to do.

Public opinion isn't in favor of lynching liberty in the United States with the rope that "leftists" have been getting from their political sponsors. Whose pulse do the politicians feel when they decide the United States wants more state socialism?

The answer is obvious.

The politicians feel their own pulse. And it beats the same message to their eager ears that it has been beating for almost 175 years: spend-and-spend-and-elect-and-elect. That wasn't original with the new dealers. All they did was to reduce a rule of thumb to an exact formula for modern politics. They can tell almost to a million dollars how much it will take to keep voters from wondering who will pay the piper when the party's over.

To be sure, there are people whose pulses are hammering for state socialism and political dictatorship. But they have nothing to do with public opinion, and most politicians wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole. Yet, the same politicians would grind an ax for them in order to win an election—and have been grinding it without any interruption since the early thirties.

The Robin's Share

At the last report, just before prestime, no one yet had invented a way to thwart hungry robins when cherries are ripe. In fact, no one seemed to be working very hard on the idea.

Man has achieved a rare state in his relations with the robin. He has conceded that the robin's share of the cherry crop is a legitimate claim and can be satisfied without violating natural law.

While there are isolated examples of unregenerate selfishness, 999 out of 1,000 robins (roughly the number to be found in any given tree when cherries are ripe) are permitted to feast without even so much as a BB shot to disturb them.

The buffalo is extinct because he never established his claim to a right to share in America's bounty. Small game in most parts of the country is at war constantly with its natural enemies—men with guns, poison and traps. Even such harmless birds as sparrows and pigeons are in a battle for survival. But the robins have things mighty nice, especially in cherry season, curse them!

It Could Be Different

In events following last November's election and the Truman administration's prompt claim of a mandate to set up a welfare state can be found many of the causes for the effects described as an economic slump.

It has been one of the blind spots of popular thought that the connection between politics and business never has been generally understood. This has made it possible for politicians to claim cures for the same sickness they caused. Heads or tails, they won. They claimed credit when things were improving, peddled habit-forming sedative when things weren't improving.

At this moment, what private enterprise needs most is assurance that the country will not be wrecked by reckless spending and bled white in the meantime by taxation. But what it is getting from the Truman administration is an almost daily threat to do the very things that have been giving enterprise the jitters. Instead of logic and reason, it gets wrangling and more politics.

Instead of what would be best for everybody in the long run, the country is dosed repeatedly with what seems to be best for politicians in the short run—vote-getting expedients. This is not true of all politicians who give no thought to anybody's future but their own.

Comments on the current slump by persons qualified to make judgments now are following the theme that politics to the contrary notwithstanding there is hope of stabilization; that things will not necessarily be worse before they can be better. This is wishful thinking, supported by nothing more tangible than the hope that the blind spot which has made it possible for politicians to win votes by policies hurtful to the people's general welfare may somehow be cleared up.

Miners in Tokyo went on strike. We'll teach 'em a lot more of our ways before we get through.

An Illinois man told police he got drunk because his wife talked too much. Bored stiff!

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, June 16
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

AGAINST many obstructions, setbacks, disagreeable situations, when the day seems lost, some sudden event or intervention may appear "from out the skies" to change the entire picture and give renewed hope and determination to go ahead with vim, initiative and security. Oppositions and doubts may melt away under pressure of hard work, well studied plans, change if necessary. Fortitude and ability, perhaps new techniques, bring joy and far reaching exultation. Be ready for "big things."

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may see gloom, hopelessness and dismay, suddenly give them a boost to the seventh heaven of joy and optimism. This may be due to a brilliant inspiration, discovery of a new technique, which will turn opposition and frustration into progressive new channels. Determination, and courage, together with new skills, may melt away stubborn opposition, and turn enmity into the determined effort to cooperate. Such "luck" may develop personal or romantic happiness as well.

A child born on this day while being stubborn, dogged, prone to rash and aggravating mistakes or false moves, may ultimately about-face in its career.

Legion Auxiliary Growth Cited By State Secretary

"The American Legion auxiliary has more than 50,000 members in the state, and the oldest one, 95, resides at Van Wert and is active in the unit there," according to Mrs. Marie Moore of Zanesville, department secretary, who was guest speaker at the county council meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion home. Including a resume of state activities in her fraternal talk, Mrs. Moore said that 35 new units were formed in the state the past year, including North Georgetown unit, "baby" of this county.

Approximately $138,000 have gone into the department treasury, portions of which will be used for rehabilitation and children's work. She stated that the Xenia Children's home is one of the finest in the country.

Mrs. Moore pointed out that the auxiliary is a civic organization in the community, dedicated to charitable work, with the objective of putting service before self. "Don't plan to send too much money away. Use it at home for those on your own doorstep," the official suggested.

Mrs. R. W. Broomall, 10th district president, presented gifts to Mrs. Eva Steven of East Liverpool, a past county president, and to Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Matilda Miller of Salem, district rehabilitation chairman, and Miss Lois Firestone, who is being sent to Girl State at Columbus by the Salem unit, were in the company.

A roll call of units showed an attendance of 74, made up of representatives from East Liverpool, Lisbon, Salineville, Columbiana, Wellsville, North Georgetown and Salem.

The July 19 council meeting will be in East Liverpool. A coverdinner dinner preceded the meeting. The dinner committee was made up of Mrs. Howard McDonald, Mrs. Chester Kridler, Mrs. Philip Stevens, Mrs. Lawrence Sanders, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Mrs. Gus Sechler Mrs. George Slocum and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt.

Everybody Talks About The Weather, But Particularly L. H. Copeland

Two thousand inches of rain would make a lot of crops grow — and already has — because that's approximately how much has been measured by L. H. Copeland of Millport, a retired farmer, in his career as a U. S. weather observer.

Contrary to popular belief, Copeland makes no weather predictions for the Columbiana county farming area. He merely supplies the statistics on which weather forecasts are based.

As a result of this mistaken impression, he receives numerous phone calls day and night asking for advice.

"I get quite a kick out of my job," he explained. "Pilots are often calling up to inquire how the flying weather is to such and such a place. They sound a bit disappointed when they learn I haven't a big weather tower."

Started By Father

His father, George F. Copeland, started the weather station in 1892, but his failing eyesight soon made it necessary for the son to take over.

L. H. and his family have continued the tradition ever since.

Each evening at sundown, rain or shine, summer or winter, he pays a visit to his tiny weather house in the backyard to observe the antics of nature. During his infrequent visits away from home, another member of his family fills in the necessary statistics.

That's something you learn in the Copeland family about as soon as you learn to read and write.

The instruments at hand, kept in working order by the government, include an automatic eight-inch rain gauge, minimum and maximum thermometers for recording trends in heat and cold, and a hydrometeorograph for humidity readings.

These are located in probably the coolest spot on Copeland's Crystal Springs farm. They record the absolute temperature of the shade and do not get any of the sun's direct rays.

The weather house stands in the shade of several large trees and the double-insulated roof prevents the sun from affecting the readings. Shutter-like slats around the sides permit the air to circulate freely. Copeland points out. Elevation of the station is 1,145 feet above sea level.

Until his wind vane broke down about six years ago, he also measured wind velocity and recorded its direction.

Every week, Copeland sends a written report of his findings to the Columbus, Parkersburg, W. Va., and Chicago weather stations.

For notifying the New Philadelphia station every time the rainfall is heavier than an inch, he receives the slight compensation of 50 cents for each call. Otherwise, his job is strictly that of a volunteer.

Copeland, 73, and spry, is one of 90-odd such observers scattered throughout the state.

After 57 years on the job, he finds himself thinking in terms of weather.

48.7 Degrees Average

"It pretty much the same, year after year, though," he explained. "For 57 years, the temperatures have averaged 48.7 degrees annually, never varying more than two degrees either way."

"This has been a freakish year, however," he reminded. "Every month so far, except April, has been above normal in temperatures."

Take it from Observer Copeland, Columbiana county is "as good climatically as any place in the state."
